

RIGHTS AND RESISTANCE TIMELINE

Name:

Date:

Directions: Look over the two readings (“You Say You Want a Revolution: Political Change on Both Sides of the Atlantic” and “Imperialism and Resistance Shape a Modern World: 1850–1914”) and find at least six instances of humans resisting colonization (or other modes of takeover) or fighting for their rights, such as in the Atlantic revolutions. Place these six instances on the timeline below. (Note that for some of the events in the readings, you may have to go online to find the corresponding dates for placement on the timeline.) In addition, for each event include the following information:

1. What were people fighting for (that is, what right was being violated)?
2. Where was this occurring?
3. Who was the aggressor and who was the victim?
4. Were the efforts to resist successful and how do you know that?
